

STRUCTURE

ACT ONE (Episodes 1 & 2)

Treyvon Gibson's life as a struggling college student takes a dramatic turn when he stumbles upon the Dark Web site "JokerStash.cc". This discovery opens the door to a world of illicit possibilities, pulling his desperate friends into a high-stakes bank fraud scheme. As Treyvon dives deeper into the criminal underworld, he encounters a cast of shady characters including Rex, Jae Doll, and more, setting the stage for a gripping tale of deceit and danger.

ACT TWO (Episodes 3-6)

Treyvon and his crew become fully entrenched in their fraudulent activities, escalating their schemes and raising the stakes. Detective Jose Hernandez starts closing in on Treyvon's operation, intensifying the tension. Meanwhile, a dangerous rivalry brews between Mula Gang and the Nine Five Spin Boyz, Treyvon's old street allies. Loyalties are tested, alliances are forged, and the threat of exposure looms large.

ACT THREE (Episodes 7-9)

The heat is on when a police officer is killed in a violent shootout with gang members, prompting a city-wide crackdown on street gangs. Detective Hernandez intensifies his investigation into the fraud ring, while the escalating gang violence threatens to spiral out of control. As social media and technology play increasingly pivotal roles, Treyvon and his associates grapple with personal betrayals and deep-seated mistrust, adding layers of complexity to their turbulent lives.

ACT FOUR (Episode 10)

In a shocking climax, Mula Gang reaches new heights of success, reveling in their ill-gotten gains. But their triumph is short-lived as federal indictments come crashing down, leading to a dramatic and devastating arrest. Treyvon's world unravels as he learns of Sabrina's tragic death while in custody, leaving him to confront the full weight of his choices.

Pilot Episode 1: "The Dark Web Awakens"

Days before semester break, Treyvon Gibson's life as a broke college student is turned upside down when he discovers the Dark Web site "JokerStash.cc". With his first attempt at navigating this dangerous digital realm failing spectacularly, he turns to his tech-savvy roommate Alex Lin for help. Together, they unlock a lucrative method that propels Treyvon into the world of bank fraud. He recruits his impoverished friends back home into his scheme, setting off a chain of events that puts him on a collision course with Brazy, a menacing dealer he owes a fortune to. Amidst the chaos, Treyvon's new allies, including Rex and Jae Doll, emerge, each with their own hidden agendas.

Episode 2: "Rob The Rich"

As Treyvon and his crew dive deeper into their fraudulent enterprise, they leverage zipbyincome.com and a "card embosser" to create counterfeit credit cards, known as "pieces". Treyvon becomes infatuated with Jae Doll, a stripper whose social media presence captivates him. He plans a bold move to win her over during her next shift. However, Jae Doll is entangled in her own drama, dealing with a call from her ex, Dusty. Tensions rise as Queshawn expresses doubts about Treyvon to his twin brother, Keshawn, while Dawn learns she might soon be a father. Meanwhile, Detective Jose Hernandez's personal life takes a hit when he receives unexpected divorce papers.

Episode 3: "Link Me"

After a heated argument with his parents, Alex Lin relocates to Asia for the semester break, forcing him and Treyvon to communicate through the encrypted app "Telegram". Treyvon reconnects with Sabrina at the local pharmacy, who introduces him to Vladimir, the "bump man" who buys stolen goods. Treyvon devises a plan for Mula Gang to rob stores and sell the stolen merchandise to Vladimir for quick cash. As Detective Hernandez investigates a botched robbery, he becomes fixated on a getaway car and a suspect's tattoo, hinting at a deeper connection.

Episode 4: "Who Are You?"

Mula Gang successfully pulls off Treyvon's plan, but not without complications. Queshawn lies about the success of their latest heist, causing friction with Keshawn, who argues with him about the deception. Dawn confirms her impending fatherhood, while Jae Doll, high on cocaine, has a brutal altercation with her best friend. Rex reminisces about the past during a visit to old haunts. Detective Hernandez's divorce deposition goes awry when his soon-to-be ex-wife arrives with her new boyfriend. Sabrina suffers an anxiety attack upon seeing her molester uncle, while Treyvon visits his sick grandmother and then his imprisoned father, rumored to be his mother's killer.

Episode 5: "Gang Gang Forever"

Boogie returns home just in time to be initiated into Mula Gang by his cousin. Treyvon formalizes the gang's status with custom diamond chains emblazoned with "Mula Gang" and a boastful declaration that no gang is bigger than theirs. Celebrating Jae Doll's new bartending job, Treyvon splurges on an extravagant night out to court her. However, tensions rise when Rex attempts to extort Treyvon, leading to a violent confrontation and a shooting. Off-duty Federal Agent Jose Hernandez spots the same getaway vehicle from the earlier robbery at the strip club, placing Mula Gang under intense scrutiny.

Episode 6: "I Like You Too"

Treyvon and Jae Doll embark on their first date, where she ignores a call from Dusty. As their relationship deepens, Jae Doll reveals Rex's true identity to Treyvon. Detective Hernandez, bypassing protocol, conducts his own investigation into Mula Gang. Rex intensifies his search for information, while Treyvon's lavish shopping spree for Jae Doll leads to an affair with her. Romel informs Dusty about Jae Doll's date with Treyvon. Treyvon, increasingly open with Jae Doll, uses his funds to secure a luxury apartment for them.

Episode 7: "Pros Over Hoes"

Supporting Jae Doll and her son strains Treyvon's finances, causing Mula Gang's operations to falter. Their loyalty is put to the test as Treyvon's focus wavers. An honest conversation with Alex Lin rekindles Treyvon's drive. Jae Doll discovers Treyvon's infidelity by snooping through his phone. Dusty, freshly released from prison, demands to see his son but has ulterior motives to confront Jae Doll. The meeting is fraught with tension as Dusty reveals his knowledge of Jae Doll's activities while he was locked up. Agent Hernandez continues his relentless pursuit of evidence against the fraud ring.

Episode 8: "Bullet Shower"

Treyvon is unaware he's been robbed of his chain by Dusty. Jae Doll secretly terminates Treyvon's pregnancy. Dawn's social media post inadvertently reveals the location of a baby shower, leading to a deadly shootout between Mula Gang and a rival crew, with tragic consequences including the death of Dawn's niece and Queshawn being shot. Rex discovers Treyvon's connection to Crazy Kurt. Hernandez visits Queshawn in the hospital, while Keshawn and Boogie track down and kill Rex. Jae Doll struggles to keep Dusty away from interfering with her life with Treyvon. Dusty proposes a loyalty test to Jae Doll. Hernandez suspects Mula Gang's involvement in Rex's murder but lacks solid evidence.

Episode 9: "500 Degrees"

The police crackdown on street gangs escalates following the death of a cop in a gang-related shootout. The Mayor of NY declares a war on gangs. Agent Hernandez receives full authorization to pursue his investigation. Treyvon becomes increasingly paranoid, and Gary, the personal shopper, faces scrutiny after fraudulent charges are linked to him. Hernandez pressures Gary into cooperating. Jae Doll meets Sabrina and her friend to shop for Treyvon's birthday trip, leaving her AirPods in Sabrina's car to track her.

Episode 10: "Surprise Party"

Jae Doll gives Dusty one of her phones to track her AirPods before she leaves. Treyvon and Mula Gang celebrate his birthday out of town, fulfilling Treyvon's childhood dream of sitting courtside at an NBA game. Mula Gang revels in their success, but their elation is short-lived when Treyvon receives devastating news: federal indictments against Mula Gang have been announced, leading to their dramatic arrests. In the midst of his arrest, Treyvon learns of Sabrina's tragic death, marking a devastating end to his journey.

SERIES OVERVIEW

The Get Back: Litty City

Season 1:

Treyvon Gibson, a college student trapped in poverty, longs for the luxurious lifestyle he sees on social media. He draws his childhood friends into a dangerous world of bank fraud, driven by his infatuation with Jae Doll, a seductive adult entertainer. To win her favor, he assumes the persona of “Trey Mula,” a flamboyant gang leader. But his actions attract the attention of Rex, a career thief looking to exploit him, and Dusty, Jae Doll’s recently released baby father who seeks revenge. Federal Agent Jose Hernandez, grappling with a bitter divorce, is also on Treyvon’s trail, leading to a volatile collision course.

The Get Back: Bandemic

Season 2:

A year into the COVID-19 pandemic, Treyvon and Mula Gang navigate the challenges of surviving, playing politics, and fighting for their freedom behind bars. Old enemies resurface, forcing them to forge alliances with other street gangs in prison. Treyvon reflects on his past, seeking answers to the tumultuous events of his life. Meanwhile, some Mula Gang members thrive.

The Get Back: Blueprint

Season 3:

Treyvon and Mula Gang embark on a new chapter as they relocate their fraud operation to an unfamiliar territory, embracing a fresh “wave” of scamming techniques. This relocation presents a double-edged sword: while it offers a chance to reinvent their criminal empire, it also introduces a host of new challenges. Adapting to an entirely new environment, they encounter novel obstacles, fresh love interests, and formidable new enemies. As Treyvon strategizes to clean and legitimize their dirty money, the gang finds themselves pulled back into old habits, struggling to balance their criminal past with the demands of their new reality.

The Get Back: The Art of Scamming

Season 4:

As Treyvon’s girlfriend announces her pregnancy, he faces a pivotal moment in his life. Determined to provide a stable future for his growing family, he resolves that this will be his final heist before transitioning to a legitimate career. He’s also in the final stages of opening a restaurant, marking his intent to leave the criminal world behind. However, the allure of fast money and the pressures of his criminal past threaten to pull him back in. Treyvon must navigate the complexities of his new life while confronting the consequences of his choices, ultimately grappling with whether he can truly escape the shadow of his past.

